THE DARK TOBACCO GROWERS ASSOCIATION

Upon Request of a Committee From this City

LAST WEDNESDAY, JAN. 9th

Made a Statement to the People of Crittenden County in Regard to Recent Lawlessness

Willing to do all in Their Power to Prevent Lawlessness of any Kind in This or any County

A committee, composed of Messrs. W. B. Yandell, G. M. Crider and T. H. Cochran, interviewed the officers of the Dark Tobacco Growers Association at Princeton Wednesday and asked for a statement addressed to the people of Crittenden county.

This statement was not forthcoming on that day but was issued Saturday and is as follows:

To the People of Crittenden county: It has been reported that threats and anonymous letters are being circulated in Crittenden county.

Now, we are not familiar with the conditions in Crittenden county. The Dark Tobacco Growers Association has no organization in that county and consequently no officers who can help manage the situation; but we can assure the people of that county that this association does not endorse such methods and will do all in the bounds of reason to prevent lawlessness of every kind and to restore peace and good will among the people.

Signed,
JOHN W. HOLLOWELL,
Chairman Caldwell county.

A BOYHOOD FRIEND OF THE EDITOR

Now in the Panhandle Near Canyon City, Texas Writes Real Interesting

Canyon, City, Tex., Jan. 9, 1907.
DEAR MARRIAGE:

Press coming regular now. We are glad to get it. We have had nothing but spring weather since we came to the Panhandle of Texas, you ought to be out here and enjoy the fine weather with us. Land is very rich, will grow anything you plant. No hills, no rocks, no bushes or vines fine climate. Plenty of good water for man and beast. Land cheap yet, but going up all the time. Anyone who bought a section of land January 1st 1906 for $4000 is now worth $8000 and can be sold for this amount. Hundreds of men are coming here from the north and east and buying this land. This land will advance $6 or more on the acre before this year closes.

This land is too good to stay down where it is. This is a big country and thinly settled. Taxes are $10 to $12 per section of 640 acres for one year. How is that? Well, Marshall this is a purely farming prairie country, fifty bushels of wheat was grown per acre near this town in 1906. Alfalfa, corn, kafir corn, maize and in fact everything in here to show for itself. Fruit and vegetables and small berries do excellent. The man that buys some of this dirt now is the man that makes the money. Well I must close for this time. Hope you all had a merry Xmas.

GEORGE H. CRIDER.

NOTICE.

MARION, KY., Jan. 15, 1907.

TO HOLDERS OF OUR TOBACCO CONTRACTS:

We recognize both a legal and moral obligation to fulfill our contract; therefore, beg to advise that we are now ready to accept delivery, at our Marion factory, of all tobacco purchased by us, under contract from the growers of this vicinity.

In this connection will say, that after having received our outstanding purchases we stand ready to handle pooled tobacco, should the growers of Crittenden county organize and wish us to do so.

EARTHQUAKE DESTROYS KINGSTON, JAMAICA

New York, Jan. 15.—The Western Union Telegraph Company is in receipt of advices reporting that Kingston, Jamaica, has been destroyed by an earthquake with much loss of life. Following is the announcement:

"The Western Union Telegraph Company has received advices that communication with Jamaica, is interrupted, also the isthmus via Jamaica, caused apparently by earthquake, and that later advices say land line communication restored to within five miles of Kingston. Traffic may be accepted at sender's risk subject to heavy delay. Reported that Kingston destroyed by earthquake with much loss of life."

FIRST MEETING OF MARION MUSICAL CLUB

The First Meeting of the New Year Held at Mrs. S. M. Jenkins Last Saturday at 2:30 p.m.

AN EXCELLENT PROGRAMME RENDERED

The Marion Musical Club had its first meeting this year with Mrs. S. M. Jenkins, Saturday afternoon, Jan. 12th. The meeting was well attended and the club starts in the New Year with renewed enthusiasm.

Wagner was the composer studied with the following programme. Sketch of Wagner's Life

Mrs. Percy Noggle.	Piano Solo. Flying Dutchman
Miss Sallie Woods	Paper on the Operas, "Parsifal" and "Tanhauser"
Mrs. Dr. Trisler	Piano Solo, "Evening Star"
Mrs. T. H. Cochran	Paper on "Enthusiasm"
Mrs. Fannie Walker	Vocal Solo, "My Lady's Bower"
Mrs. John Wilson	Vocal Duet
Miss Kittie Gray	Instrumental Music

Mrs. Tucker, Jenkins, Carleton Piano Duet Miss Madeline Jenkins Mrs. S. M. Jenkins

The programme was well rendered; the music all being of a high order. The papers read showed the subjects had been studied and much thought and care expended in their preparation.

Delightful refreshments were served and the club adjourned to meet with Mrs. Noggle the second Saturday in February, at which time the French composer, Chopin, will be studied.

STRAYED.—From my farm near Marion on Jan. 1st, one sow, thin rinded, black with a few white spots, weighs 250 or 300 lbs. No marks. Sear on each flank. Will pay for her return. JIM HUNT, Marion.

MISS MATTIE PERRY WINS THE $80 RANGE

Young School Teacher, Daughter of G. W. Perry the Capitalist, the Fortunate Person in Range Contest

DRAWING TOOK PLACE LAST SATURDAY

Mrs. A. S. Cavendar inaugurated a contest last fall by which each customer, not only received full value for each dollar spent at that store, but was also given a chance to win a magnificent steel range with all the utensils complete. The idea was quite original and quite popular. The ladies all wanted that range, for there is nothing a good housewife takes greater delight in than her kitchen.

Last Saturday was the day set for the drawing, and little Miss Vera Conyer was chosen to draw the winning ticket, which she did after being blind-folded. When the name on the ticket was read out "Miss Mattie Perry," it caused quite a decline in the range stock some of the ladies held.

Miss Perry is being congratulated and we hear she is to give a big dinner and cook it all herself on the new range and invite a number of her friends to show them what a good cook she is.

Mule Day.

Last Monday was a banner mule day. Layne & Leavel Bros. were here and they purchased eighteen mules six of them from Lawson Bros. the timber men, and brought them $1150. Twelve others were bought and shipped and all brought good prices.

Derailment Near Nunn's Switch

MARION HIGH SCHOOL WINS IN A WALK

THE LONG TALKED OF DEBATE HELD LAST FRIDAY NIGHT

Result Was Highly Gratifying to all the Friends of the Marion Speakers

MARION HIGH SCHOOL TRIO VS. MORGANFIELD TRIO

For time immemorial there has existed a pleasant rivalry between Marion and Morganfield which has furnished amusement to the adherents of each city on every occasion, when the residents of these places came in contact with each other. Morganfield the capital city of Union—the fairest garden spot in western Kentucky, and in fact all the citizens of Union, have always regarded Crittenden county—and her commercial metropolis Marion, with more or less disdain, and it has been only recently, since the great mineral development has uncovered the wealth which has been buried for centuries—that they have recognized in us, a rival worthy of their highest respect, and their equal in wealth, progress, education and refinement. This feeling has ripened into ties of friendship in social matters as well as those of business, church and school, which is a good omen—one welcomed by the Press which has ever advocated those things which broaden the mind and mellow the heart in all the affairs of life.

This being the case we welcomed Prof. Burton and the speakers chosen as the best his school had produced, last Friday when they arrived here to meet the speakers of our own school in debating the question, "Resolved That Labor Unions are more Pernicious than Trusts." The auditorium was crowded long before the hour for the debate, with friends of our school, from Marion and vicinity and of the Morganfield school from that city and Dixon. Quite a number of loyal friends to the Morganfield school having accidentally dropped in just to hear the debate?

The Marion speakers were Misses Annie Dean, Fenwick Wathen and Mr. Gray Rochester. The judge selected by Marion was Prof. T. J. Coates, of Princeton. Marion took the affirmative side of the question.

The Morganfield speakers were Miss Verlie Coffman and Messrs. Paul Schmidt and Thos. Waller, and their judge was E. G. Saye, of Corydon, they taking the negative side of the question.

The musical programme was rendered by Mesdames J. W. Wilson and S. M. Jenkins and Miss Madeline Jenkins.

Mr. Gray Rochester opened the debate for Marion and his speech was a masterly one. His language was forceful, his delivery dignified and his speech was well received and pleased his hearers, who pronounced it unanswerable. Mr. Paul Schmidt of Morganfield, replied for the negative. Miss Fenwick Wathen next appeared for Marion. She was at perfect ease and was grace itself on the stage. Her language was well chosen and her very appearance appealed to the entire audience and from the start it was as plain as sunlight that she was a winner of both debates and hearts as well. She took the audience by storm.

Miss Verlie Coffman replied for Morganfield, after which Miss Annie Dean appeared for Marion. Her dark eyes flashed, as with keen repartee she replied to the weak arguments of her opponents, Miss Dean's bright and well trained mind served her well and not a point was left unanswered or unprotected. Her speech was logical, her rhetoric perfect and when she had ended her argument, the audience as one man felt proud of the three students who had so valiantly defended their cause and had so creditably represented Marion. No one in that vast concourse was ashamed of the Marion High school students after hearing these three speeches.

Mr. Thos. Waller closed the argument for Morganfield. His speech was without fault, but it was palpably plain to everyone present that our speakers were in a different class from those of Prof. Burton's school and he was fair enough to admit it. The speakers, or at least some of them did not deny it.

The audience was unanimous and could not have been otherwise. However, one of the judges, E. G. Saye, of Corydon, probably out of pity, voted for Morganfield, altho some claim his decision was anticipated and was based on the memory of a previous meeting the Corydon school had with Marion, at which time they met an ignoble defeat. It certainly was based on something other than justice and fairness.

The Marion speakers were showered with congratulations and the young ladies each received a beautiful floral offering.

A POOR FARMER FINDS $1,000 IN GOLD AND SILVER

While Tearing Down Old Chimney Finds a Can of Old Coin Beneath the Hearth Stone

HOARD OF A MISER FINALLY REVEALED

MayKing, Ky., Jan. 13.—Hut Hall, a very poor farmer who lives about ten miles north of here, found $1,000 in gold and silver yesterday. Hall was building a chimney to a new house he had just erected near the place where the residence of Allen Hall once stood. Allen Hall was a rich old miser, and was thought to have a great deal of money in his lifetime, but when he died some eight or ten years ago his children and heirs never found any money, after he died his widow and her youngest son still resided in the house.

Later on some few years ago she was murdered one night by a notorious gang of robbers and regulators. It was thought by the neighbors that this band of robbers secured Hall's money.

Later on the old residence was burned. So when Hut Hall was using the old chimney rocks and dug up the hearth stone, he found under it an old rusty bucket containing $1,000 in gold and silver, which was black and tarnished with age.

Now the heirs of Allen Hall have brought suit against the man who found the money, claiming it to be Allen Hall's money, which they suppose he buried there many years ago perhaps before the late war.

The Four Leaf Clover Quartette.

The Four Leaf Clover Quartette has secured Mr. Percy Noggle to fill the vacancy made by Mr. Shrodes who recently left for Hopkinsville. Mr. Noggle is a musician of note, having been connected with bands and quartettes for the last twenty years, and we predict quite an improvement in this organization in the near future. Miss Sallie Woods will fill the place made vacant by Mrs. Shrodes. This makes a very strong organization, as all the members are good musicians, and have always pleased the audiences wherever they have appeared. They will be heard once a week in the leading churches in town, and no one should miss this treat.

Miss Sallie Woods, accompanist; Mr. James Travis, first tenor; Mr. Percy Noggle, second tenor; Mr. Maurice Sutherland, first bass; Mr. George M. Crider, second bass.

Hogwallow News.

Since the snow has settled on 'Tobe Mosely's whiskers he looks fifty years older.

The deputy constable has put the lid on the eastern over at the still house.

Orin Hock died this week. Upon his departure several of his friends accompanied him as far as they grave yard.

Ellick Hellwanger is figuring on marrying a grass widow over on Musket Ridge. By so doing he will get a good wagon and team and can make hay while the sun shines.

The Dog Hill church has been improved wonderfully by the addition of a new member.

Raz Barlow has been confined in jail at Rye Straw for several days, but after drinking a quart of Bat Smith's Moonlight Beel broke out with great ease.

Ellick Hellwanger has returned from Tickville with a ratt load of almanacs and turnips. We are glad to see the people taking to literature and it shows that the world is getting more enlightened every day.

The postmaster's sausage grinder was stole from the postoffice Thursday. Nobody was in the postoffice on that day but the Dog Hill preacher and Washington Hocks, and the preacher don't steal.

Miss Hostetter Hocks's horse is looking quite slim in the waist caused tight lacing of the saddle girth.

Little Fidelity Flinders has been sick with the mumps and on account of our fear of scattering the disease his name was not mentioned in our columns.

Jefferson Potlocks has found some squirrels in his patch of woods and is stepping up all the cracks in the fence.

It is noticed that the moss on the north-side of the trees in the creek bottoms is very thick, which indicates that a hard winter is confronting us. Sin Flinders and Poke Easley have come there with wagons and are gathering all the moss off in hopes that they can moderate the weather by removing these indications.

A mule looks all right in a stable, but put him in a parlor and he shows up bad. Which illustrates that there is a proper place for everything.

With us all there come times when it looks like the bottom has dropped out and the lid is screwed down tight.

When seized with an itching to write, scratch your head awhile before you scratch the paper.

The height of some people's ambition can be reached with a short ladder.

Miss Rosyola Mosely was took with a bad cold Thursday. It was caused by the cool air escaping from her accordion while she was playing the other night.

Frisky Hancock has been dreaming so much about drowning that he has taken the caution to sleep with several pillows under his head so that he can keep it above the water.

It is all right to start at the bottom in building house, but you can't do that with everything, for instance a well.

A woman is not necessarily light-headed just because she wears feathers in her hat.

Atlas Peek is endeavoring to move his family to Thunderation. This will be a good riddance of a fine gentleman.

Flotch Henstep killed a rabbit this morning in front of the postoffice. When he fired he did not know the gun was loaded.

Little Fidelity Flinders rode his new trick horse to the postoffice yesterday.

Yam Sims held the lamp Sunday night while Miss Frazie Allsop sang at Hog Ford. She raised her voice to such a high pitch that Yam had to stand on his tip toes.

The postmaster has announced that Christmas was postponed two days

It Quiets the Cough

This is one reason why Ayer's Cherry Pectoral is so valuable in consumption. It stops the wear and tear of useless coughing. But it does more -- it controls the inflammation, quiets the fever, soothes, and heals. Sold for 60 years.

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral has been a regular life preserver to me. I have used it through a severe attack of pneumonia and I feel that I owe my life to its wonderful curative properties. -- WILLIAM H. THURMAN, Mass.

on account of the mail carrier getting delayed at the moonlight still on Musket Ridge.

A heavy snow will fall here during the week so that the rabbits and possums can be tracked.

The Dog Hill church spoiled a nice cedar tree by having a Christmas tree Thursday night. They would of had the entertainment Wednesday night but the ax Sin Flinders used in chopping down the tree was dull and it took a great while.

In striking a match hold the handle firmly in your right hand and place the head of the match firmly against a grindstone or some other hard substance and draw toward you. Do not light it around an open keg of powder.

Tobe Mosely has contracted a deep seated cold by going to sleep too near a knot-hole while the Dog Hill preacher was preaching.

Miss Rosyola Mosely sang by request at Hog Ford Sunday. Next time she will not sing by request.

Fit Smith has a jug of six-year old liquor which he takes to bed with him at night to keep his feet warm.

A gentleman whose name has for the present slipped our memory died a few months ago. We somehow or other overlooked the affair, and we are sorry, and it is seldom that we overlook such an important occasion.

Raz Barlow has decided to reduce the size of his feet by wearing big legged pants.

The fellow who wears ear-muffs never hears anything bad about himself.

No it is not proper, Nell, for young ladies to climb trees.

We are indeed glad to be in a position to announce that the postmaster has a new pair of sox. The government is in a thriving condition.

Before sowing your wild oats, soak them thoroughly in mid-night oil.

Isaac Hellwanger shot at a fine screech owl setting on a strawstack pole Friday. But the owl, becoming alarmed at the report of the gun, flew off a few seconds before the shot reached him.

Toonstones are guide posts, showing which way the deceased have gone. But in many cases the marble cutters have been misinformed.

Sin Flinders has whittled him out a crooked walking-stick to walk with when he gets drunk.

The road is long, with some steep hills and barren places, but look at the smooth, happy stretches.

About the most unimportant thing that we have ever made mention of is the fact that Sap Spradlen has decided to reach his hair on the left side the coming year.

Poke Hocks has a new way of ketching duck that is proving disastrous to them. His method is to find a pond that is froze over, and cut a round hole in the ice. He then goes out and makes a circle of a few miles, drives all the ducks up to the hole and while they are drinking he shoves them into the water, where they all drown.

If the ark had sprung where would we all have been yesterday?

One day this week Atlas Peek dug up a watch that he buried going on ten years ago. The watch had run down.

There is an inclination with many people to think that a man doesn't work hard unless he wears a long tired look and a pair of green overalls.

Poke Easley can use only one of his eyes now since Raz Barlow shot out one of the glasses in his spees. He will have to go to Tickville to have a new light put in as there are no window lights in Hogwallow.

A nice yellow jug belonging to Ellick Hellwanger was cracked by lightning during a recent thunder storm and it is feared that it cannot be repaired. It was a pure accident, but Raz Barlow is to blame as he had the jug out when the storm occurred and should have had his eye on his business.

Perhaps the reason that the moon floats across the sky is because it is so light. (Editorial announcement: That is a good one if nobody else hasn't thought of it first.)

A dark and heavy sheet or cloud shadowed the sky one day. But before it could rain

A wind came up And blew them all away.

The preacher at over at Hog Ford delivered one of his hair rising sermons Sunday and illustrated hell so plain that the windows had to be hoisted and the stove door opened.

In base defiance of the law of gravitation trees grow up instead of down.

Do not get it into your head that every man that speaks to you is your friend.

In autumn when you see a flock of wild geese high in the air examine their bills closely and if you see a fine fuzz on them then the winter will be a very severe.

The Charming Woman

It is necessarily one of perfect form and features. Make a man who would never serve an honest man, possess these rare qualities that all the world admires: meanness, clear eyes, clean skin, and that selflessness of step and attitude that is the mark of a true gentleman. A physician says: "A woman is never attractive, not even a beauty, if she is not first of all a woman. She must have a certain amount of nerve, light eyes, a good voice, and a certain amount of grace. Without these things she is not a woman." -- Woods & Ome, Druggists.

Coal Train is Raided.

North Yakima, Wash., Jan. 9. -- A train loaded with coal was raided at the station here yesterday by citizens without fuel. Almost twenty earloads were carried off. The engineer started to pull out of town, when the levers holding the false bottoms of the coal cars were pulled out and the coal let down on the tracks.

Hundreds have been without fuel for days, with zero weather prevailing. Citizens have organized to hold up any coal train that attempts to pass here without leaving fuel. Some of Crittenden county folks are there, and we hope have plenty of fuel and are not suffering.

Special Announcement Regarding the National Pure Food and Drug Law

Make a Bluff.

If there isn't any pleasure
Wait for you beside the way.
If there's not a thing to grin at
In your journey day by day,
If you've got excuse for kicking
And for stirring up a row,
Don't you do it, don't you do it!
Just be happy, anyhow.

If you meet the world a-grin,
Then the world will grin at you.
You can laugh the clouds to shivers
Till the blue sky glimmers through;
If you just pretend you're happy,
With your whole heart in the bluff,
Then almost before you know it,
You'll be happy sure enough!

Long Live the King!

is the popular cry throughout European countries, while in America the cry of the present day is "Long Live Dr. King's New Discovery, King of Throat and Lung Remedies!" of which Mrs. Julia Ryder Pain, Tunio, Mass., says: "It never fails to give immediate relief and to quickly cure a cough or cold." Mrs. Paine's opinion is shared by a majority of the inhabitants of this country. New Discovery cures weak lungs and sore throats after all other remedies have failed, and for colds it's the only sure cure. Unobtainable by Woods & Ome, Druggists, 50c and $1.00. Happiness.

Happiness! Everybody is seeking it, nobody is finding it. What's the answer? Isn't happiness the sly dodger?

Every few days a philosopher tells us we might as well be happy now, for we will be a long time dead—but nobody seems to take him seriously enough to prove the veracity of his statement. Hosea Ballou says "real happiness is cheap enough"—and yet a man cannot buy it. Some, who haven't the money, think they could buy a lot of it for a million or two but no man who ever had the money has made good. And you can no more steal happiness than you buy it. Stolen fruit is said to be sweetest, but stolen happiness is mirage. Occasionally a man marries it and brags around that he has solved the riddle, but before he can diagram happiness for posterity, it has folded its tent and made an Arab get-away. The man who comes nearest to being happy is the negro. This proves that happiness is no repeater of persons and worries itself but little about riches. It is rather a mental capacity, a germ that is in a man's heart or a man's mind.

The easiest way to approach that desirable interior content is to make other people as happy as you can,

This is an oft repeated advice, but the truest of all receipts to ensure happiness. Long fellow says, "To be strong is to be happy," and yet I have seen many a burly fellow in perfect health whose face is as sour as a dill pickle. Man chases happiness all over the globe and comes home to find it has been hiding in his hut all the time he was abroad. Blaise Pascal says we never live, but we hope to live; and always disposing ourselves to be happy, it is inevitable that we never become so. Pope advances the idea that happiness is like the air, always about us, but never to be grasped.

The wise man decided that he would no longer chase happiness, or seek its balmy influence. And behold! When he no longer sought it, happiness came and lived with him.

The answer is, then be content. Do not hunt happiness with hue and cry, but quietly keep at work and let happiness come of its own free will. In other words, treat happiness when you would woo it much the same as you would treat a woman you love and want to marry. But, anyhow, if you cannot be happy, be as happy as you can! --Western Publisher.

THE LITTLE FAMILY

I
There was a little family who lived in Bethany.
Two sisters and a brother composed the family.
With prayer and with singing like Angels in the sky.
At morning and evening they raised their voices high.

II.
They lived in peace and pleasure for many lonely years
And laid away their treasures beyond this vale of tears.
Though poor and without money their kindness made amends.
Their house was ever open to Jesus and his friends.

III.
Although they lived so happy, so kind, so pure and good.
Their brother was afflicted and by it thrown in bed.
Poor Martha and her sister they wept aloud and cried,
But still he grew no better, he lingered on and died.

IV.
The Jews came to the sisters, laid Lazarus in the tomb,
And tried for to comfort and drive away their gloom.
When Jesus heard the tidings far in a distant land,
So swiftly did he travel to see that lonely band.

V.
And while he was a coming, Martha met him on the way
And told him that her brother had died and passed away.
He blessed and he cheered her and told her not to weep
For in him was the power to raise him from his sleep.

VI.
Yet while he was a coming, Mary met him too,
Down at his feet a weeping, rehearsed the tale of woe.
When Jesus saw her weeping he fell a weeping too,
And wept until they showed him where Lazarus was entombed.

VII.
He rolled away the cover and looked upon the grave,
And prayed unto his Father his friend Lazarus to save.
And Lazarus in full power came from the gloomy mound
And in full life and vigor he walked upon the ground.

VIII.
So all you who love Jesus and do his Holy will,
Like Mary and like Martha, you'll always use him well.
He'll comfort and redeem you and take you to the skies
And bid you live forever where pleasure never dies.

Chamberlain's Cough Remedy Benefits a City Councilman at Kingston, Jamaica.

Mr. W. O'Reilly Fogarty, who is a member of the City Council at Kingston, Jamaica, West Indies, writes as follows: "One bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy had good effect on a cough that was giving me trouble, and I think I should have been more quickly relieved if I had continued the remedy. That it was beneficial and quick in relieving me there is no doubt and it is my intention to obtain another bottle." For sale by Woods & Orme, the leading Drug Store in Western Kentucky.

The Fly.

Two met in the road. They were old enemies. One of them drew a gun from his pocket and pointed it toward the other one, saying: "I'm going to kill you. We've both waited our chance and mine came first." "All right, shoot. I'd kill you if I had a chance." His finger was on the trigger and was gradually closing against it. The other man shut his eyes and stood pale as death. The pistol had a long blue steel barrel with a fine sight at the end, and just as the hammer was ready to send the plunge into the cartridge, a fly lighted on the sight, the gun wobbled and the ball passed the enemy's head. The man dropped his gun into his pocket. "I won't shoot any more. Never kill another fly. That one saved you."

DR. KING'S NEW DISCOVERY Will Surely Stop That Cough.

Discovery of Mammoth Cave

In 1807 nearly a century ago, occurred the discovery of the Mammoth Cave of Kentucky, says the Standard. His disclosure probably resulted from the quest for "peter" dirt, as soil found in limestone caverns, containing lime nitrate, was called, says the Chicago Chronicle. Legend gives other version of the historical discovery of the world's greatest cavern, but fact is potent than folklore, and now the search for caves with suitable dirt for saltpeter manufacture probably was due the discovery of this great wonder.

The feverish anxiety to find peter dirt was the direct result of the embargo bill passed by congress in 1807. That bill forbade American vessels to leave American ports for Europe, and foreign vessels could not land cargoes here.

This country was getting on toward the war of 1812 and needed gunpowder. To make gunpowder saltpeter must be had. It had been coming from Italy and Spain, but the embargo act stopped that. There was no American supply of the substances.

A roving chemist, one Dr. Samuel Brown, had at Lexington, Ky., shown how by crude but efficient processes saltpetre or potassium nitrate, could be obtained from crevice earth. Wood asked when lichen and boiled with the leached product of the fine salt of limestone caverns would furnish a nation's life. And so the quest for caves were begun and was assiduously continued.

When the Mammoth Cave was found every part of the great cavern was searched for cave earth. From pit, dome, highway, from crystal-bedecked avenue slaves carried the heavy loads of peter dirt to the leaching vats. Many thousands of tons of soil were thus treated and the chemistry of the day producing something like 100,000 pounds of saltpetre within two years.

Heaps of leach soil scores of feet in length a score in height greet the visitors eye for the first two miles of the great avenues which the visitors enters. But these do not tell all the story. Many thousands of tons of loose rock were to be removed and then repiled in order that the real bottom of the cavern might be reached. And nearly all of this was done with slave labor. The compact piles of mud yet show hoof prints of patient oxen, as well as hub marks on the used piles.

The Joy

of living is to have good health. Use Hobbins and you will have bushels of joy. You need not be blue, fretful, and have that bad taste in your mouth. Try a bottle of Hobbins, a positive cure for all liver complaints. E. Hobbins, Austin, Texas, writes: "I have used Hobbins for over a year and had it a fine regulator. I highly recommend it as a fine medicine for Dyspepsia." Woods & Orme.

Epilepsy Fits St. Vitus Dance

Are nerve diseases, and unless checked, lead to destruction of both mind and body. The weak, shattered nerves must have something to strengthen and build them back to health. Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine is a remarkable nerve tonic and stimulant. It strengthens the nerves, relieves the nervous strain, and influences refreshing body-building sleep and rest. Persistent use seldom fails to relieve these afflictions.

"I was taken with epileptic fits; had eleven in less than 12 hours. My father sent for our family physician, but he could do very little for me, and I grew worse every day, and at last they had three doctors with me, and I still got worse. My father heard of Dr. Miles' medicine and bought a bottle of Nervine and a box of Nerve and Liver Pills. I had taken only a few doses until I began to feel better. I took 12 bottles, and it cured me sound and well. It has been worth all the world to me. I recommend it wherever I go. You may use this as a life-long testimonial to the merits of your medicine, for I am enjoying the best of health, and feel that my life and health is due to this wonderful medicine." LEVY WILLIAMS, R. F. D. No. 2, Boston, Ga.

Dr. Miles' Nervine is sold by your druggist, who will guarantee that the first bottle will benefit. If it fails, he will refund your money.

The Others Heart

By WILKIE.

How oft do we stop to think of the other hearts we are treading upon as we stalk through this life careless and indifferent to the loved ones around us. Man do you ever think of that good noble woman you so much admired once in your life? who seemed held every heart string of your manly breast but since has become so common that it is only the Old Lady now. Do you know that heart today feels the awful carelessness in you, do you ever tell her as of yore how you love her? how dear she is to you? How you would miss her were she gone. Do you think of her at Christmas time with a little token, only to be thought of? remembered not cast aside that all. It is not the costly present, the display of wealth. She only wants you to let her feel that you love her and remember her a woman.—What are you doing to make your home the most pleasant place upon earth for your husband when he comes home-tired and undone, do you put your arms around him and tell him you are sorry he has such a hard work to do? Do you get the very best easy chair for him, a drink of water, or a nice warm dinner? Do you smooth back the hair from that careworn forehead, and place a kiss saying "I'm sorry for you dear" all these and thousands more little affections too dear to throw away can be used to make a happy heart in that husband and a feeling of content, a welcome at home, sad but true not felt in all homes. Boys! What are you doing to make that father and mother proud of you? They have lavished upon you their fondest hopes, nothing they failed to do for your welfare. How are you paying them? By spending your time in an outhouse, gambling away the spare change your father gave you? Keeping company with women who make your saluted mother bury her face for shame and spend her nights praying for you and shedding tears over you when she needs the rest due her after a days hard work trying to make something for you, to keep you from the hardships of life. We would ask you to stop right here, and think of the hearts you are so ruthlessly treading upon. Oh how much they love you, and how little you care for them.

Boys! what about that dear little sister who think so much of her brothers, there is nothing sweeter than that young tender heart, love for a brother, they lavish all on brother. Now, brother, be careful about this poor little heart? can she say my brothers are noblest of God's creatures. Do you ever come home with your breath tainted with that curse liquor with fluttering step with eyes all reddened. Oh! how that poor little heart sinks within her, how can she hear such reproach upon that dear brother, the very idol of her heart. How about the company you keep for your sister's sake, do you think she cares to see you come to church or leave it with some one beneath the dignity of good people, thus dragging her to a level with the brother's company. God forbid boys you are what you want to be, you can be the life, the happiness of the father, mother and sister, or you can drag them down to shame and disgrace, which will you be? If you have done wrong and caused these heart-aches in your family, just stop and think, to continue, continues the heart-aches, to quit mends the broken hearts and makes life a pleasure, instead of a hell. Girls! what do you do for your parents to make them happy? are you obedient and kind? Do you kiss away their sorrows? Do you do what you can to take the hardships of life off their shoulders? Do you sing for them and cheer them when they seem sad? Oh! my child little do you know the cause of that tear on mother's cheek or that careworn look on father's brow. Daughter remember, to make a happy parent, means a loving, kind hearted obedient child of virtue and truth.

OUR CHURCHES

The subject of the sermon at the Presbyterian Church last Sunday was "The Relation of Science and Religion." The text was Heb. 1: 10. "Thou, Lord, in the beginning hast the foundation of the earth: and the heavens are the work of thine hands. The remarks of the speaker were to demonstrate the relation of science and religion: now they are in opposition rather than opposition. Science takes the student back to the beginning of the material universe and that is as far as science can go.
Science can give a history of life and tell us in what forms it has existed upon earth. But when it comes to the analysis of life we have to seek elsewhere to ascertain its origin.
Some scientists have an anti-scriptural spirit and some Christians have an anti-scientific attitude: neither of which is reasonable. Science in its course deals with matter going backward from age, to age, until it reaches God the Creator.
Religion in its realm moves from God to matter, as in the text the author in the act of worship unites both religion and science: "Thou, Lord, in the beginning hast laid the foundation of the earth.
The next thought was the relation of science and the Christian religion. Christ is the creator of the world. John testifies to Christ's work as the creator. John 1: 3. "All things were made by him: and without him was not anything made that was made. In him was life. Many passages of Scripture teach that Christ was vitally connected with the work of creation. This makes Christianity a reasonable religion, as well as scientific. The Christian is a scientist: and the scientist should be nothing less than a Christian.
There will be services at the C. P. church next Sunday.
The Bible Class will meet at the C. P. church next Sunday at 2:30 p. m.

The Boys Eyed Him.
Last Wednesday when the 3:40 train stopped at Marion, a middle aged looking man stepped from the royal bumpers of the muley baggage upon the siding at the depot. He cast his eyes around at the crowd and threw back his overcoat to put his hands in his pockets. When he did this, dangerous looking weapon of the firearm family, were plain to be seen projecting from the rear pockets of his trousers. The boys at once began to get scared.
Some one after making a closer inspection noticed he wore a star on his vest. They at once sized him to be a U. S. marshal. We have not yet been able to learn anything particular of his business, but who ever he was, the boys eyed him.
Rifle Free To Wide Awake Boys.
We have a Stevens rifle a fine gun, not a fobert but a real rifle worth at least $10, which shoots No. 32 cartridges which we will give to the first boy who brings us twenty-five annual subscriptions to the Press provided as many as five are new subscribers. FROM HORSE CAR TO THE TROLLEY

Story of the Wonderful Development in Electric Traction During the Past Twenty Years.

PASSING OF STEAM TRACTION

Gradual Elimination of Distance Through the Development of the Electric Locomotive—Chicago to New York in Ten Hours.

During the summer of 1887, there appeared in the New York Sun the following factious news item:

"They tried an electric car on Fourth avenue yesterday. It created an amount of surprise and consternation from Third St. to One Hundred and Seventeenth St. that was something like that caused by the first steamboat on the Hudson. Small boys yelled 'dynamite!' and 'rats!' and made similar appreciative remarks until they were hoarse. Newly-appointed policemen debated arresting it, but went no further. The car horses which were not on the other track looked without exception as was natural, over an invention which increases to a degree from a sausage factory."

"That was less than twenty years ago. Today the New York Central Railroad Company is expending $50,000,000 in the electrification of the first thirty-five miles of its system, and the car horses were long ago relegated to the hayrack, if not to the 'sausage factory.'"

"They" have done marvelous things since the increasing knowledge of electricity opened up a new world of achievement, and we have scarcely crossed the threshold. In 1880 the electric car was a dream; in 1890, an experiment; in 1900, a great and wonderful fact which is revolutionizing passenger transportation and will enable human beings to move from place to place twice as fast as they do at present.

Born in Old Vermont.

When in 1834 Thomas Davenport, of Brandon, Vt., ran a toy motor mounted on wheels on a small circular railway, the modern electric railway with its possible speed of over one hundred miles an hour was born.

In 1828 Robert Davidson, of Aberdeen, Scotland, built an electric locomotive which actually reached a speed of four miles an hour on the Edinburgh-Glasgow railway. Nine years later Professor Moses G. Farmer operated an experimental car, which, carrying two passengers at Dover, New Hampshire.

Then the United States congress became interested. By special grants Professor Page of Smithsonian Institute was aided in the construction of several forms of motors. One of them was used as a locomotive and driven by a battery of one hundred Grove elements, was tried April 20, 1851, on a railroad running from Washington to Bladensburg. A speed of nineteen miles an hour was developed, so great that it destroyed the batteries.

Numerous other experiments followed, all commercial failures because the motors were crude and the source of power a primary battery. The development of the wonderful modern dynamo was necessary before electric railroading could become a commercial success. The first great step was in 1859, when an Italian named Palmieri invented a continuous current dynamo. Three years later the first practical commercial machine for continuous current operation was made by Gramme.

Still the modern electric car was impossible. The "reversibility of function" had yet to be discovered, involving electrical transmission of energy through two machines, one driven by power and generating electricity; the other reversing the operation, receiving electricity and developing mechanical power.

Like many other important discoveries, this is said to have been the result of accident. A workman coupled a machine to a live circuit by mistake and was greatly astonished to see it begin to rotate. This reversibility of function was publicly demonstrated for the first time at the Vienna exposition in 1873.

Not until 1879 was the first electric railway put in operation, taking the current from a dynamo using a post in motor and carrying passengers. In a month it was in operation at the Vienna exposition and was a huge and successful success. The first car carried a single passenger and the small cars were of the type of the modern trolley.

Electric Train Just Installed on New York Central Railroad, 1900.

About this time Stephen D. Field and Thomas Edison in the United States began experimenting. In 1880 Edison was operating at Menlo Park an electric locomotive which pulled two cars.

The First Electric Railroad.

The first regular electric line to be established was at Lichterfelde, Germany, near Berlin. It was only a mile and a half in length and opened for traffic in May 1881. The trains carried twenty-six passengers, at a maximum speed of thirty miles an hour.

The first electric car to be operated regularly in the United States was installed by Dett on the Hamden branch of the Baltimore and Annapolis Railroad in August, 1886. That was barely twenty years ago. So great was the skepticism of the public and railway men generally that the contract under which the road was built withheld payment one year so that it might be determined whether the cars would run. "No one but a knave or a fool would undertake such a thing," said a well known scientist at the time. Scientists sometimes have trouble keeping up with the procession. About the same time small cars were operated by Van Derspoede at South Bend, Ind., followed by other small roads in Edison Electric Locomotive Operated Experimentally at Menlo Park, 1880.

Windsor, Canada; Appleton, Wis.; Port Huron, Mich.; Scranton, Pa.; and Montgomery, Ala. In the autumn of 1884 Frank L. Sprague, whose name is inseparably connected with electric traction, began to attract attention with his motors.

Twenty Years of Achievement.

At the beginning of 1887 there were in the whole world less than sixty miles of electric railroad track, and only about one hundred motors and dred miles of road are operated, or will be as soon as the line to Helydore is completed. Electricity at wholesale is sold to cities and villages along the route for lighting purposes; electricity for power is sold to farmers. Trains of elegant cars run into Chicago at a speed which would have seemed impossible a few years ago. Passengers wave good bye to steam trains on a paralleling railroad, which they pass easily. A parlor and dining car is one of the luxuries which the suburbanites enjoy going to and from the city, and the railroad serves a veritable gold mine for its owners.

The horse car has long since disappeared. With the lion horse, the great steam locomotive, be supplanted also.

This question occurs to all who can see the significance of passing events. Probably not for many years to come, as far as heavy freight traffic is concerned, because steam is especially applicable to the hauling of freight. But the action of the New York Central in electrifying thirty-five miles of its road leading out of New York, and the popular agitation for similar improvement in Chicago and elsewhere, would seem to point to a time not far distant when electric railroads will connect distant cities and greatly shorten the hours of travel.

Chicago to New York in Ten Hours.

In fact such a railway already is being built between Chicago and New York by the Chicago-New York Electric Air Line Railroad company, of Chicago. This company, headed by a group of practical railroad men, proposes to run limited trains, making not more than three stops, through to New York or Chicago, in ten hours. The route fairly takes one's breath away at first, but the project considered solely seems practical enough, and certainly is a consummation devoutly to be wished. The work of grading began Sept. 1 near LaPorte, Ind.

As the new road will be an air line, with few curves, the route surveyed is 100 miles shorter than the Pennsylvania "Short Line", and 230 miles shorter than the Lake Shore and New York Central, each of which runs trains covering the distance in eighteen hours. Taking into consideration the shorter route of the Air Line, this is equivalent to a fourteen-hour service. With low grades, a straight track and no grade crossings, the seven-mile miles an hour average necessary to a ten-hour service ought easily to be maintained. Even on the first class steam roads of today ninety miles an hour is not uncommon for short distances.

The Scientific American of Feb. 18, 1905, speaking editorially of the New York Central experiment, says, "The success of this installation, of which there can be no doubt whatever, marks the first step in the gradual substitution of the electric for the steam locomotive in the operation of long distance express trains." The Chicago-New York project may be regarded the second step.

Mr. Sprague himself says that speed is "a matter of degree." "What then will determine the future?" he asks. "Chiefly the financial factor, as it meets the future of any other great industrial problem. When savings in operation and the increased return for traffic will more than pay a fair dividend on money invested for electrical equipment, will trunk lines be operated by electricity?"

Professor Charles P. Steinmetz, one of the greatest authorities on electricity, is quoted as saying, "There is no limit to the speed that may be developed in electric traction—that is, there is no limit up to 150 or 200 miles an hour. Higher speed than that the car wheels could not stand. They would fly to pieces from centrifugal force. Not only can a speed of 120 miles an hour be maintained on a train equipped with electricity, but in my opinion it is an entirely feasible scheme from the commercial point of view."

At any rate, the world seems on the eve of great things, and no scientist dares say today as was said twenty years ago, "a man is a knave or a fool." The attitude of the American public is one of faith and expectancy, best expressed by a recent remark of an old lady in her last sickness: "I don't want to die," she said, "I want to see what they are going to do."

The movement for municipal ownership in this country is a hunt by the lamagogue for a new issue to catch votes—Melvin O. Adams.

Enjoy Life.

Don't be melancholy! Melancholia is the mother of dyspepsia and the grand-mother of failure! No man can hate himself and enjoy life. The man goes about with a frown on his face and a desire in his heart to strike his mother-in-law, has missed the philosophy of living. Melancholy is responsible for more mediocre work than lack of ability. Do your carefully if you don't lay up a cent. The who insists on being hypochondriacal will contract jaundice, chills, cold feet, fainting spells, neuralgia of the liver, and corns. Enjoy a joke now and then if you have to carry a diagram about in your pocket. Laugh at little things as often as there is anything to laugh about. The result will be an occasional laugh just for the fun of the thing. Laugh makes the mare go and friends come. Be good to yourself and grow fond of yourself. It beats faultfinding and quarreling and growling. What's the use of carrying discord about in your heart? Being happy is merely a matter of temperament. See the colored gentleman! Has he castles of gold or silver? Is he talented or courted or praised? Does the finger of fame point at his woolly head or play tag in the front yard of his domicile? And yet, see how happy he is! Go then and do likewise, save the doctor bills and enjoy life! It is the only way!—Western Publisher.

ST. LOUIS BRIDE KISSES FOUR HUNDRED

And In Imitation of Hobson Asks If There Are Any More Who Got

LEFT IN THE GREAT FORWARD RUSH

St. Louis, Jan. 7.—Immediately after Miss Leda Neman, of No. 1415 North Fourteenth street, became the bride of Jacob Glaser, Saturday night, she had to give away 400 kisses. The ceremony took place at Denbigh Hall, and was according to the old Jewish custom.

As soon as the minister had finished saying the words which married the two young persons, the 400 guests swarmed toward the altar. The newly-made husband barely had time to take the first kiss before his bride was being saluted osculatorially by another young man—young and old, little and big—everybody got his or her kiss. When the exercise was through the bride was nearly exhausted, but beamingly declared that there was any person who had not received his due, she stood ready to see that the omission was corrected. Both the bride and bridegroom fasted for twenty-four hours preceding the ceremony.

To celebrate the breaking of their last they drank the nuptial wine, a wedding present—and dashed the glasses to the floor, where they were broke into a thousand pieces.

Overdoing.

A gentleman with a scientific head lived in a town which was in a valley. Being shut in by tall hills the atmosphere in the town was very hot and close during the summer months. Whereupon the scientific man his midnight candle until he had developed an idea that would furnish cool breezes both day and night for inhabitants. Going to the open, half a mile from town, he built an enormous electric fan. Oh, it was as the front of a ten acre barn, and, being more exact, it measured a quarter of a mile across the front of it. The man then sent us some 50-electric power motors to turn the wonderful fan which was directed toward the town.

The fan at last began to revolve and when it had reached full speed the wind from it was so strong that the entire town was blown away. Overdoing a thing is worse than not doing it.

I WILL GIVE THIS BEAUTIFUL PICTURE

To one person at every post office. The first one who writes will get it. It is called "Fruit and Flowers." The rich fruits are so natural that you almost think you can eat them and the flowers are perfect that you half expect to smell their sweet perfume. The picture is 20 inches long and 10 inches wide, just right for framing. Write to me for a postal card and I will send you the picture. I will not ask you to send me a cent of money. I am going to give you the picture and ask you to get one of your neighbors to send me 10 cents for something that is worth 45 cents. I am a publisher, and I have adopted this plan of advertising my business. It is an absolutely new and original way of advertising, and if you are the first to write from your post office, you will be the one to profit by it. Remember, now, I do not expect you to send me one cent of money; I shall not ask you to do a lot of work for me, and the picture will positively be sent to you by return mail. I will then explain my plan in full to you and ask you to show it to ONLY ONE of your neighbors and get that neighbor to send me ONLY 10 CENTS. I will give you a much for the time that the first one you see will jump at the chance. I will trust that you are fully to do this little favor for me, and I know you will be delighted to do it when you see the picture. Don't let anybody get ahead of you, but write today, mention this paper in which you see my advertisement, and ask for the picture "Fruit and Flowers." If you write AT ONCE I will also send you another present worth 25c, which will prove very useful to you. H. K. RANKIN Publisher, Nashville, Tenn.

An Animal Story For Little Folks

The Foolish Goat

One day a goat found a pile of tomato cans and proceeded to devour them. A poet passed that way and, gazing on the goat, said:
"Thy visage is that of a goat, but thy actions are decidedly asinine."
"I wonder what on earth he can mean?" cried the goat as the poet passed on his way. "I never heard such large words before."

Then he strolled along a little farther and presently he found a dictionary.

"Oh!" exclaimed the goat. "This is the book that has all the big words, and I guess I can find out in it what the poet meant. But, then, I can't read," he pondered. "What am I to do?"

Then a happy thought occurred to him.

"I shall eat the book," he said, "and then I shall have all the words in use. Surely I shall be learned enough then."

And the goat devoured the dictionary, big words and little words and all, and when he got through he was no wiser than when he began.

Just then the man to whom the dictionary belonged came along, and he gave the goat a sound thrashing.

THE GOAT DEVoured THE DICTIONARY.

mean?" cried the goat as the poet passed on his way. "I never heard such large words before."

Then he strolled along a little farther and presently he found a dictionary.

"Oh!" exclaimed the goat. "This is the book that has all the big words, and I guess I can find out in it what the poet meant. But, then, I can't read," he pondered. "What am I to do?"

Then a happy thought occurred to him.

"I shall eat the book," he said, "and then I shall have all the words in use. Surely I shall be learned enough then."

An Animal Story For Little Folks

The Frogs' Contest

There was once a grand contest announced for all the young frogs in Marsh's pond. The oldest bullfrog was coming to decide the matter. Young Peter Frog had always been good from the time he was a polliwog, and he made up his mind to win the prize and wear the medal. For weeks the other frogs were practicing diving off a log, and it was very much the way they had always played before the contest was announced. Peter Frog refused to join them. He carried a toadstool for an umbrella, so afraid was he that a drop of water might spot his carefully rubbed green coat, and he stood far away from the happy, splashing young frogs for fear they should spatter mud on him.

And Peter Frog felt very superior to the other frogs, and he went home with a nice little roll of music under his arm which a linnet had written out for him on a leaf, intending to practice bird songs, while all the other frogs were bellowing and shouting in chorus.

At last the day of the contest came. The oldest bullfrog announced that there would be diving, swimming and shouting contests. Peter Frog was his own nephew, and he had hoped that Peter might win the prize. "Get in there! Why don't you jump in?" he shouted, as Peter stood about with his toadstool umbrella over him and his little roll of music under his arm.

"I'm afraid I'll soil my clothes," replied Peter. "I'm afraid I'll drown. I don't like the water—nasty wet stuff! But I can sing a song just like a linnet, and he swelled with pride.

"A song! Sing like a linnet!" boomed the old bullfrog. "Well, who ever heard the like of that? You're a disgrace to your name, Peter. You may leave the pond and live with the birds."

I have no idea which frog won that contest—perhaps they all did—but Peter is living with the birds to this day, and if you ever meet a delicate little frog with a toadstool held over him for an umbrella and chirping as nearly like a bird as he can you will know it's Peter.—Worcester Post.
